

Extract from The Worst Class in the World by Jo Nadin

Lacey Braithwaite says it's Harvey Barlow's fault for bringing in discount biscuits.

Harvey Barlow says it's Manjit Morris's fault for offering him a broken yoyo and a stone that might be a dinosaur claw for a discount biscuit.

Manjit says it's Lacey Braithwaite's fault for claiming her biscuits are superior, and also for being so mean with her biscuits in the first place.

Mr Nidgett says he doesn't actually care whose fault it is as long as the Biscuit Madness is finished or he will LITERALLY resign from teaching and become a llama farmer because it cannot be harder than this.

I don't know whose fault it is, but I do know it started on Monday.